Issue no. 81 Winter 2019

The stunning garden on the front cover of this issue is in the NSW Southern Highlands where Les and Elaine Musgrave 'retired' a few years ago. Retirement hasn't turned out to be the right word because, as so many others find, Les and Elaine are busier than ever. Elaine is one of Australia's most recognised botanical artists and Les has made this amazing garden The Kaya. The garden's story is a feature in this winter issue.

You'll also find:

- The intriguing story of Musk Farm near Melbourne.
- Coldenham is preserving and recreating its history.
- Janice's QLD garden has 'grown like Topsy'
- AB loves living in her wildlife haven.
- What's happening at the Australian Museum of Gardening in the Adelaide Hills.
- Are plant collectors like poultry breeders?
- The long wait for the eucharis lily to bloom.
- The community lemon tree.
- A dangerous insect invader is detected.
- Heirloom tomatoes, bulbs in Turkey and Peta introduces us to the mouse plant (and conscripts her dog William to show it off.)
- And all the favourites: New Releases, Diary Dates, GC news, Seasonal Tips, Photo comp etc.
